

Captain Scott F. Robertson
Commanding Officer
Surface Warfare Officers School Command

---

Capt. Robertson attended Boot Camp at Naval Training Station, San Diego, in 1986 as a non-designated Seaman. Shortly after graduation, he attended the Broadened Opportunity for Officer Selection and Training (BOOST) program, earning a four-year NROTC scholarship.

Robertson attended Norwich University the Military College of Vermont and earned a bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering in 1991.

His sea tours include: USS George Washington (CVN 73) as the 1st division officer, USS Normandy (CG 60) as the Fire Control officer, USS Port Royal (CG 73) as the Weapons and Combat Systems officer, USS John C. Stennis (CVN 74) as the Engineering Department Auxiliaries officer, USS Gettysburg (CG 64) as the executive officer, and he commanded USS Rodney M. Davis (FFG 60) and USS Normandy (CG 60).

Robertson's ashore assignments include the Aegis Training and Readiness Center (ATRC) where he was course supervisor and lead instructor for the Force Air Defense Warfare Commanders Course, and on the Joint Staff in the J-8 Directorate as the Resources and Acquisition manager.

Following his assignment at ATRC in 1999, Robertson spent two years away from naval service and worked as a defense weapon systems engineer before voluntarily returning to active duty following the 9/11 terrorist attacks.

Capt. Robertson holds a Master of Science in Systems Engineering from George Mason University.